Student Daniel Rios Hernandez, accepted his award Oct. 24 in Schaumburg for his winning artwork in the Illinois Art Education Association's statewide K-12 student art show. Daniel will serve as a 2026-27 student art ambassador, with his artwork traveling across Illinois as part of an exhibition celebrating student art.

Thank you so much for supporting our students in the art studio. These special materials will help bring the joy of self-expression to all our students, but especially to those who struggle with fine motor skills and verbal communication. These unique materials are not available from any of the school vendors, so support from generous donors like you means the world to us!

With gratitude,
Ms Gallin

Thank You From Daniel Webster Elementary School

Fall is such a wonderful time to make cyanotypes with fallen leaves and things we find outside. And we did make our own printing plates out of cardboard last year. I'm excited to teach students new techniques and use authentic tools.

We have been invited to a Zine Fest this year, and I am hoping we might be able to do a little printing on some of our zines before we go. The scholars will be so excited to bring their artwork in front of an audience. And new materials will make it all the more exciting.

With gratitude,
Ms. Jenkins
